Nausea Jean Paul Sartre

Nausea is a philosophical novel by the existentialist philosopher Jean-Paul Sartre, published in 1938. It is Sartre's first novel and, in his own opinion, one of his best works. The novel takes place in 'Bouville' a town similar to Le Havre, and it concerns a dejected historian, who becomes convinced that inanimate objects and situations encroach on his ability to define himself, on his intellectual and spiritual freedom, evoking in the protagonist a sense of nausea. French writer Simone de Beau

Nausea (novel) - Wikipedia

I just finished reading "Nausea" by Jean-Paul Sartre who was a leading philosopher of existentialism. In his novels and plays, as in Nausea, he portrays his characters adrift in a meaningless world. Existentialism claims that human beings have full responsibility for creating the meaning in their lives, and that we exist in a state of total freedom.
